Petrograd.

Petrograd, Sept. 13.—M. Sko-beloff, minister of labor in the Kerensky cabinet, and a member of the council of workmen's and soldiers' delegates, announced today that General Korniloff's adventure had collapsed and the army at its headquarters had surrendered.

Offer to Surrender.
London, Sept. 13.—General Korniloff, former commander in chief of the Russian armies, and leader of the rebellion against the provisional government, has expressed a willingness to surrender on certain terms, says a dispatch from Petrograd to the Exchange Telegraph company. The dispatch says that General Korniloff demands his unconditional surrender.

Korniloff's Cause Collapsing.
Petrograd, Sept. 13 (delayed).—According to an official statement just issued, General Korniloff's attempt seems to have collapsed, and there is no longer any reason to fear a collision between the revolutionaries and the government. The statement says that Korniloff had been in communication by telephone with General Kerensky, the opinion was expressed that the revolutionary general would abandon his enterprise.

Force Germans to Retire.
Berlin, Sept. 13.—German cavalry units south of the Riga-Vitebsk road, on the Russian front, have been withdrawn before strong Russian pressure, according to the official announcement issued today by the German general headquarters staff.

Conflicting Reports.
Stockholm, Sept. 13.—Conflicting reports of developments in Russia were received here tonight by the Swedish press. The reports, which were received from a village from Petrograd reported that an engagement had occurred between the forces of General Korniloff and the Petrograd government forces near the town of Luga. The government forces were defeated, according to this information, retreating from the capital and destroying a bridge near Petrograd.

Petrograd to Check Pursuit.
Petrograd, Sept. 13.—General Korniloff is said to have requested Michael V. Rodzianko, former president of the duma, to form a government at Moscow.

Shooting was heard in Petrograd when the train was leaving the station. Part of Korniloff's troops were said to have joined General Kerensky on the other hand, the conservative newspaper reported that Premier Kerensky was gaining the upper hand, and that the troops at the front were joining the Kerensky army.

The Svenska Dagbladet announces that it has received a dispatch from Petrograd stating that General Korniloff has left the city and is moving toward the front. The dispatch also states that a battle would be fought Wednesday.

Mohammedans Quit Korniloff.
Petrograd, Sept. 13.—A portion of General Korniloff's forces have been ordered to quit the city and move toward the front. The government forces are said to be in a position to meet the troops of General Korniloff before they reach the capital. There was every expectation that a battle would be fought Wednesday.

See Hopeful Signs.
Washington, Sept. 13.—Two developments in the Russian situation caused officials here to regard it more hopefully.

They were: The abandonment of General Korniloff by his troops, and the fact that the German army placed where Korniloff probably had placed, would show the advantage of General Kerensky's position. The appointment of General Kerensky as premier, and the fact that Korniloff, who has assumed the rank of commander.

Despotic of the situation on the surface, and the fact that the German army placed where Korniloff probably had placed, would show the advantage of General Kerensky's position. The appointment of General Kerensky as premier, and the fact that Korniloff, who has assumed the rank of commander.

THREAT TO DECLARE MARTIAL LAW FAILS TO CURB STRIKERS

(BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.)
Springfield, Ill., Sept. 13.—Unmoved by Governor Lowden's warning yesterday that anti-American influences were at work here, the industrial street car operators became more acute today when bakers, grocery clerks, brewery workers and meat cutters joined the ranks of the strikers. Plumbers and electricians are threatening to leave their work before the day is over. In every case those who have walked out declared their action was not primarily in sympathy with the car strike, but because police and military authorities had declared unionists' right to parade last Sunday. Estimates placed the number now on protest strikes at between 7,000 and 8,000, most of whom are coal miners. Martial law is spoken of as a possibility.

PERFECT NEW MOTOR FOR U. S. AIRCRAFT

(SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE.)
Washington, D. C., Sept. 13.—The Liberty motor, the new airplane engine upon which the United States is relying to establish definite air supremacy over the Germans over the fields of France, has passed its final tests and is a complete and gratifying success. Secretary Baker announced Wednesday.

In a 1,500 word announcement, Secretary Baker told how all the best brains and business of American motordom had contributed its secrets and achievements to the government to produce the Liberty motor, which is to carry the thousands of American airplanes over Germany.

Will Rely on Motor.
"Probably the war has produced no greater single achievement," the statement says, "and relates for the first time the story of design and construction of the new motor."

Secretary Baker says the motor is "not only a complete and gratifying success, but it is a complete and gratifying success. Secretary Baker announced Wednesday.

In power, speed, service, ability and maximum weight," he continued. "The new engine invites comparison with the best that the European war has produced. The engine was brought to the front through the co-operation of more than a score of engineers, who pooled their skill and trade secrets in the war emergency."

Ready Next Spring.
For obvious reasons specifications of the motor, details of its performance under test, and arrangements made for its production in quantity while the engine was in the comparative short time.

Back of the announcement stands the fact that American built machines will begin to appear in large numbers on the fighting lines early next year. Secretary Baker said in his announcement a formal report from publication of any information regarding the Liberty motor other than that included in this statement.

GERMAN SOCIALISTS LOSE MANY MEMBERS

(BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.)
Berlin, Sept. 13.—The committee of the German socialist party has issued a condensed report which is to be submitted to the party's convention to be held at Wurzburg in the year ending March 31st.

The outstanding feature is the appalling drop in the party's active membership. On March 31, 1914, this membership was 243,000. In March of this year the membership was but 243,000.

The report says that at the outbreak of the war half the male membership of the party was called to arms. The party's full membership of 243,000, however, has been reduced to 243,000.

The report also says that the party's financial activity has been reduced to a minimum. The party's financial activity has been reduced to a minimum.

General Korniloff's demand that he be given dictatorial powers and his defiance of Russia's present provisional government are meeting with Premier Kerensky's resistance. The Korniloff revolt has now brought her to a serious situation that has threatened Russia's very existence. While Korniloff has the greatest support in his support Kerensky has said that he is backed by the populace and is confident of suppressing Korniloff's "dangerous adventure."

SENATE COMMITTEE REPORTS FAVORABLY ON SUFFRAGE CLAUSE

(BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.)
Washington, Sept. 13.—The Susan E. Anthony resolution for national woman suffrage by constitutional amendment was favorably reported today by the senate suffrage committee and will take its place on the calendar for a vote at the session beginning in December.

Whether the resolution can command the necessary two-thirds vote in the senate and later in the house is a question. President Wilson so far has refused to put the measure before the administration behind it, although urged to support it as a war measure. Suffrage leaders, however, regard the report as a forward step and welcome the opportunity to get a record vote on it in the open.

Hawaiian Suffrage Wins.
Without debate or objection, the senate today passed Senator Safford's bill authorizing the Hawaiian legislature to give women who have property and other qualifications of male voters the right to vote in territorial elections. It also authorizes the legislature to submit to the territory the question of giving women unrestricted suffrage there.

RED CROSS STARTS REHABILITATION OF MANY FRENCH TOWNS

Washington, Sept. 13.—The following cable from Major Grayson M. P. Murphy, head of the Red Cross commission to France, has been received by the Red Cross war council.

The bureau of reconstruction of civil affairs of the American Red Cross in France has a new motto: "Housing follows the plow."

In view of the overwhelming importance of augmenting in every possible way the food supply, the Red Cross will carry on its first work of reconstruction in those portions of the devastated areas which are selected by the government as the best wheat growing regions, and to which the French government sends its best tractors and plowing by.

Representatives of three divisions of the American Red Cross in France—planning, engineering and construction—returned from a study of conditions in the devastated areas, having selected three villages in which provisional reconstruction work will be begun within a fortnight.

"Fifty villages are being visited in some, a portion of the buildings can be repaired. Nearly all the houses are without roofs, with out windows and door frames, and with absolutely no furniture or utensils."

"The Red Cross plans to do provisional reconstruction of dwellings in several of these villages, and also assist the refugees return to the villages, to assist in their economic and social rehabilitation. In the light of experience gained in provisional reconstruction on a larger scale. In these particular villages, the total population before the war was 3,357. Now it is 235."

The villages first selected are those in the best wheat growing area, and the government will plow the land with tractors. The return of the houses will permit the return of the refugees who can do much toward getting the land sown to wheat this autumn. In order to encroach upon the limited supply of lumber, the Red Cross is selecting villages in which the work will be largely that of provisional repair rather than of new construction. It plans to make on the spot its own brick and lime.

(BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.)

MORE COMPENSATION FOR DEPENDENTS OF U. S. FIGHTING MEN

(BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.)
Washington, Sept. 13.—The same compensation for dependents of officers or enlisted men in death and disability cases, was provided as in an amendment to the Soldiers and Sailors' insurance bill adopted today by the house, over the protest of the committee in charge of the measure.

The bill also was amended to increase compensation for all dependents about 15%.

The new rates per month adopted were: widow, $35; one child, $45; two children, $52.50; and an additional $5 for each child up to four.

One motherless child, $20; two, $35; three, $45; and $10 additional for each child under five.

A widowed mother would receive $35 a month and no family allowance would exceed $55 a month.

Under the original draft of the bill the compensation for officers' dependents have gone as high as $200 a month. The change in the measure was marked by great enthusiasm on the part of every member of the floor.

A few committee members arranged the classification of the doctors. This census and classification will determine whether or not the medical officers' reserve corps. In this way the doctors who can spare will be allowed to return to their regular duties and long standing practices will not be taken.

The extra call for enlistments does not mean, it was pointed out, that the medical profession has been at all depleted in enlistment. It merely means that the demand along their line is extra heavy and more trained and experienced men are essential.

Figures show that there were in the personnel of the United States army or directly serving the government on August 15, more than 80,000 physicians.

St. Louis, Mo., Sept. 13.—Four auto bandits drove into Sullivan, fifty-five miles south of here, at four this morning, bound the railroad agent and telegraph operator, and two marshals, and threw them into a box car. They then rounded up the two night marshals and threw them in with the captives.

Fierce Battle Rages For Possession of Mount San Gabriele

(BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.)
Rome, Sept. 13.—The battle between the Austrians and Italians for possession of Mount San Gabriele is still furiously continuing, according to the official statement issued today by the Italian war department. New Austrian forces yesterday renewed their attempts to dislodge the Italians from the slopes of the height, but after advancing a few points they were stopped by the main Italian line of occupation.

Near Crest of Mountain.
Udine, Italy, Sept. 12 (delayed).—Italians and Austro-Hungarians are engaged in bitter fighting for possession of Monte San Gabriele. The arch-bishop's statement issued today by General Cadorna, mentioning Monte San Gabriele for the first time, reveals that intense fighting for possession of the point has been going on since the taking of Monte Santo by the Italians. While the top of Monte San Gabriele has not yet been captured, the Italians are now firmly established just under the crest and out of range of the Austrian artillery fire.

The Austrian resistance has been of a most desperate character, and there have been heavy losses on both sides. Estimate Italian Losses.

Vienna, Sept. 12, via London, British admiralty per wireless press. The Italian losses in the battle of Isone, the battle," says an official statement issued today by the Austrian war office, "have reached almost a quarter of a million, including 20,000 prisoners."

On Belgian Front.
Paris, Sept. 13.—Near Bixchoote on the Belgian front, says the official statement issued today by the French war department, the French and German troops fought a violent battle of hand-to-hand combat last night. The French guns checked infantry attacks south of Duivincourt. In the Champagne German raids on French trenches were repulsed.

In Lens Sector.
London, Sept. 13.—Field Marshal Haig's report sent to the British war office today, says:

"Our patrols brought in a few prisoners during the night in the Lens sector. Hostile artillery showed activity in the neighborhood of Bapaume, southeast of Messines, and north of Langemark."

COUNTY PHYSICIANS PREPARE TO GIVE A FULL QUOTA TO ARMY

(BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.)
Beloit, Wis., Sept. 13.—That Rock county will start in to do its share in the big work of raising her quota of the 8,000 more physicians that the surgeon general at Washington has asked for in the county, was the promise of Dr. F. T. Nye today.

A meeting of the physicians of the county to be called either here or in Janesville as soon as Dr. Brown, secretary of the Rock County Medical society, returns from his vacation trip to Denver, is predicted as the first step.

Dr. Nye, southern Wisconsin district councilor, in whose care the whole campaign in the five counties of his district, Rock, Green, Jackson and Adams, has been left, has got into touch with each county medical committee and has promises of speedy action from every one.

Rock county's committee is composed of Dr. Brown, as secretary; Dr. Nye, Dr. C. E. Smith and Dr. M. P. Andrews of the Gateway City, and Dr. F. W. Nuzum, Dr. W. A. Munn and Dr. W. J. Canfield of Janesville.

This committee will order a meeting of all physicians of the county and the proposition will be put up to them squarely. The committee will arrange the classification of the doctors. This census and classification will determine whether or not the medical officers' reserve corps. In this way the doctors who can spare will be allowed to return to their regular duties and long standing practices will not be taken.

The extra call for enlistments does not mean, it was pointed out, that the medical profession has been at all depleted in enlistment. It merely means that the demand along their line is extra heavy and more trained and experienced men are essential.

All the German business houses and restaurants were wrecked and consular buildings were damaged by fire. Several were wounded seriously and seven of the injured are expected to die. At first part of the crowd was unmanageable and the police closed the streets. Approve Argentine's Action.
Washington, Sept. 13.—The cabinet late last night approved the action of Foreign Minister Payerdon in presenting passports to Luxemburg. He is said to have contemplated the action, but no action will be taken until further details are received from Washington and Stockholm.

Burn Many Buildings.
The downtown section of the city was the scene of the wildest disorders Wednesday night in connection with great anti-German demonstrations, in which thousands of Argentines took part. Many of these mobs carried firebrands, and as a result scores of buildings were set on fire. Several blocks of German business houses were destroyed.

As fast as fires started in the German club, one of the finest in the city, and the burning of the German Daily La Union, were extinguished, they were started again. Mounted patrols and the open fire department kept rushing from one attempt to quell riots and put down the flames. In several instances police officers were wounded and shot at by those who were attempting to burn the buildings.

Extraordinary precautions have been taken by the authorities to protect Count Luxburg here Thursday morning to receive his passport. The decision to hand Count von Luxburg his passport after a conference with the foreign secretary Wednesday morning, the president taking the step without consulting the cabinet, was a grave enough to win the matter a more immediate decision without reference to the cabinet.

Handling passports to Count Luxburg, German charge on Wednesday, the Argentine government indicated its reopening of the whole subcommittee controversy, with the hint of a situation threatening a break with Germany.

Want Plans Refined.
Germany is to be asked to refine her I-boat plans, and the Argentine government holds that if these are satisfactory Berlin will be permitted to send another minister to Buenos Aires, otherwise Argentine will draw her minister from the country.

The Argentine government request of Count Luxburg to leave the country immediately. The Argentine minister at Berlin was instructed to ask Germany to explain the whole Luxburg incident.

Military authorities were ordered to grant all possible protection to Count Luxburg. Information was that the Argentine minister at Buenos Aires, who had received the statement of the Stockholm foreign office already published here, on dispatches through Count Luxburg to Buenos Aires, but the department already was in possession of that information he did not consider it necessary to present it formally.

Has Sweden's Statement.
Washington, Sept. 13.—Reverend Akerhielm, chargé d'affaires of the Swedish legation here, today informed Secretary Lansing that he had received the statement of the Stockholm foreign office already published here, on dispatches through Count Luxburg to Buenos Aires, but the department already was in possession of that information he did not consider it necessary to present it formally.

Presented to Lansing.
Sweden's official explanation of the position of the Stockholm foreign office in transmission of Count Luxburg's statement, through her legation at Buenos Aires, reached the Swedish legation here today and after being presented to Secretary Lansing will be made public.

It is mentioned to be the same as the official statement issued at Stockholm earlier in the week which denied the intimating nature of the dispatches was unknown to Sweden.

ARMY CAMP THREAT

The possibility of making Beloit dry is being considered. The fact that so many soldiers have learned the route from Rockford to Beloit gives rise to talk of a forty-mile dry zone around camp, and this would take in Beloit, which is nineteen miles from Rockford.

Beloit saloonkeepers are said to be offering rewards for information of the sale of liquor to soldiers. They say the selling to soldiers is done by bootleggers.

Major Donald M. Sawyer and his staff are wondering what will be done with them. Now that Camp Grant is nearly completed, there is talk of the erection of similar establishments elsewhere, and if the decision is immediate it is supposed that Major Sawyer and his staff will be assigned to one of the two contracts.

NIGHT WORK UNDER CONSTANT FIRE IS DESCRIBED BY POND

AMBULANCE DRIVING IN FOREST ON FRENCH FRONT—CONSTANT SHELL FIRE AND GAS ATTACKS.

5 DAYS IN HOT SECTOR

Entire Area Covered By Their Section Under Fire—Risks Life to Save His Blesses.

Hour upon hour under constant shell fire and an all night run in one of the worst sectors of the western front are part of the experiences of Alphonse Pond, son of Mr. and Mrs. W. S. Pond, described by him in a letter received today from behind the French lines.

"When I got your letter," he opens, "I was working on my car, No. 777, trying to bring her back into running order after twenty-four hours of rain or hot work. You see, while I was out learning the road the chap who was with me took the car out in a rain and sure put my pet to the bad. I tried to get her to run right without going back to the mechanic, but with little success. He couldn't make her go at all, but I always have said that little old 777 would go for me even if she only had one good lung. I proved it, for when my twenty-four hours were up I came in with a load with only one cylinder doing the work, but I did it in."

"I took four hours to get her back into shape. I didn't get the next night and wasn't supposed to be on duty the following night," but was ready anyway. "We have the hottest sector ever given one of our ambulance drivers. A big attack is in progress there and the artillery preparations were just beginning."

"You can't imagine what that means—no one can conceive of it. It has been there for it is completely beyond description. Well, at midnight of that second night, a call came in to send our five extra cars to a point in the thick of the fight. Some of us had slept as the town we were quartered in was under shell fire all the time and bursting shells are not sleep producers unless you are hit by one. As 777 was now in first-class condition it was one of the five to answer the call."

"The night was pitch black and three quarters of our road lay through the dense forest (the scene of 'As You Like It'), and it was impossible to see there and went ahead. We drove in convoys and once stopped so short that I couldn't see the car ahead (the one, by the way, driven by the man sent over by Isabelle McLean), and broke my lamp. We proceeded without getting lost. The French guns were all about us and the continued scream and flash of arriving shells would drive anyone crazy if they stopped to think of it. Truly, it was so terrible that I could have but one thought: I kept saying to myself all the time: 'Some one little car, keep going. We must get through. Keep going. Keep going. Keep going.'"

"I stepped on the low speed pedal and shot her the juice. Oh yes, I shot through but I thought I was safe. I was not. The car was hit and the leader said 'Gas.' It sure didn't take us long to get our masks and we drove on. After we passed the camouflage or artificial road screen, I thought we were a lot nearer the front than we were. At the foot of the next hill we hit an impossible blockade—artillery. We were camouflaged, but the artificial road screen, together in the road through the valley. Add to the natural horror of that woods road an incessant stream of gas shells and high explosives and you get a faint impression of what it was like."

"Our post was beyond the blockade, so we started through that valley and death on foot. God was good, we got through and climbed the hill, but we had not passed out of that little hell yet. Our leader lost his way and some of his nerve. We turned back and should have gone straight on. Two men passed us. 'You got lost or not?' (where is the first aid station?) we shouted to them, but they were too crazed to answer and rushed on. 'Two men came running. One said 'Halt!' (where is the shelter dugout?) we shrieked. They muttered incoherently and left us. Then we came to a shelter and a us. We entered into a small abri which was crowded with crazed men, men who had been in that gas for three hours then. They were more dispirited than such a sight: strong, fighting men absolutely cowed, terrified, mad. Only one had the least spark of intelligence left and even he could not tell us what road we were on. Where our post was. All we learned was that we were at an artillery post, one of a thousand in that vast forest. We took one man with us; he was wounded and crazy to get to an ambulance."

"Again we went out into that hell of the night, now with an added burden, a blesses. Ed, our driver, saw a light. It lit down here until I call, he said. We obeyed. Try to recall the most terrible electric storm you ever saw, heard of, or read about, and imagine sitting in the midst of it all to wait for orders."

"Then Ed called but the noise was so terrific that he couldn't hear our answer, and we were unable to hear him again for ten minutes. When we did get his voice again we followed and stumbled into a second, and thank God, a decent abri. The men here were more intelligent and in half an hour we had a better idea of our locality. A doctor finally came in and said he would lead us to our cars or to our post, as it was our need, try to get there if we were needed. It is the only brave man, the only one of true courage, that we encountered that whole night. I met three others like him in the five days we were in that sector."

"A gas mask lasts four hours. Ours were due to exhausted at half past four. At about two our blesses' mask gave out and Ed, asked one of us to give him an extra mask. I handed him my mask as he said, 'Remember, old man, you may need it yourself,' but I told him that I'd take a chance. The blesses' still lives."

"The doctor and the doctor started out and we followed. Remember, it was into that same furnace of hell. Right in front of us landed a half dozen gas shells. They were a new kind of gas, a recent product of civilization and Kultur. The doctor drove us back to the abri where we waited for day. At down things were no better, but one could at least see. We found our corner, the blockade and our cars. Three of us drove back to the base, two drove through the forest around the blockade and got some blesses."

"None of our men were lost, but half the section is sick and three men are in the hospital. Half our cars are out of commission because of that gas. So our lieutenant asked that we go on reserve to get our men and cars into shape. We expect to be here doing nothing for a week or two. I feel safe in writing this to you now as we have been assured that we will never get such a sector again."

"For five days our hospital, our base and relay point, all posted and the whole five miles of road we traveled, were under fire day and night. No other section has ever been in such a place. We had two posts which were about two kilometers from the front lines, two more about three kilometers back, and another about five. All were hit by a shell hit on a store of ammunition, among a number of exciting tales. Once an explosion knocked me down and a piece of shell flew past, just about six inches from my hip. Another shell hit on a store of ammunition, about two hundred feet away and set it all off. Some fireworks! Steel pieces twice hit on the entrance to our dugout. I was in at the time."

"From the postes we took the blesses back to a hospital de Triage. Here they are treated. As soon as only first aid was given, the blesses were able to move, other cars took them to more inland hospitals or to railroad trains where they are carried to large and special hospitals. Some sectors the system is more elaborate, but that in general is an outline of the work of the hospital service. We work in twenty-four hour shifts, with the number of men varying from eight to twelve. The day of the action of the day or night. We had eight out most of the time."

"Next time you write me, I can give you a recipe for a good soup, milk, chocolate, etc., and if I can't try to give the fellows a real feed, about Thanksgiving. The feed will be difficult, so it must be a simple one. I have a recipe for a simple cake, I've forgotten all I used to know and I left my recipe books home. Our cook doesn't know how to do anything but cook potatoes."

CHICAGO MARKETS.

Wednesday's Markets.

Chicago, Sept. 13.—Cattle prices Wednesday advanced 10¢40c, with fancy heaves 80¢ above previous Wednesday. Wilson & Co. paid $17.50 for a load of 1,678-lb. heaves. Dakota grass-fed rangers also made a new record price yesterday, a load selling to Morris & Co. at $15.80. A new high record also established a new high record.

Wednesday's hog market opened 10¢15c higher, but later most of the advance was lost owing to an increase in receipts over the early estimate. Arrivals of 17,000 were second largest since Aug. 20.

Nearly 1,000 Idaho-fed lambs sold yesterday at $18.25, being nearly $4 higher than low time last month and higher than record for the class. Lambs sold yesterday to go back to the country at $18.

Receipts for today are estimated at 7,000 cattle, 15,000 hogs and 11,000 pigs against 4,912 cattle, 14,883 hogs and 26,455 sheep corresponding Wednesday a year ago.

Average price of hogs at Chicago was $18.25 against $18.20 Tuesday, a week ago, $10.55 a year ago and $7.42 two years ago.

Cattle in Big Gain. Steers sold 10¢40c, being 15¢25c higher than the bulk and 15¢25c higher, while calves ruled strong. Feeders and stockers in excellent demand at strong to 25¢ higher prices. Prime heavy corn-fed hogs 17.50 and a load lot of rangers $15, all new record prices. It was one of the best trade days witnessed in several years.

Choice to fancy steers... $18.50@17.80
Poor to good steers... 11.50@17.50
Yearlings, fair to fancy... 6.50@13.00

Feeding cattle, 60@1,100 lbs. 5.50@10.50
Poor to fair calves 11.90@16.50

Hogs Weaken Off Late.

Hogs yesterday were generally 10¢ higher, but the market weakened off, with little advance on any class on the close. Receipts early were called 40,000 to 11,000 and late 17,000. This increase in the run was responsible for the late weakness. Pigs, however, held up from start to finish, with the demand larger than the supply. Best butchers made $15, but that price was not quotable late.

Six Aluminum Dessert Molds Usual Price 60 Cents

To every housewife in this section we make this offer, but for one week only. It will never be made again. It is made to show you the delights of Jiffy-Jell, which will change your whole conception of quick gelatine desserts.

Our offer is this: Buy at your grocery six packages of Jiffy-Jell—the flavors you prefer. Then send us the coupon below, with 10 cents to pay postage and packing. We will then mail you six aluminum molds—molds that sell for 60c—all one shape or assorted.

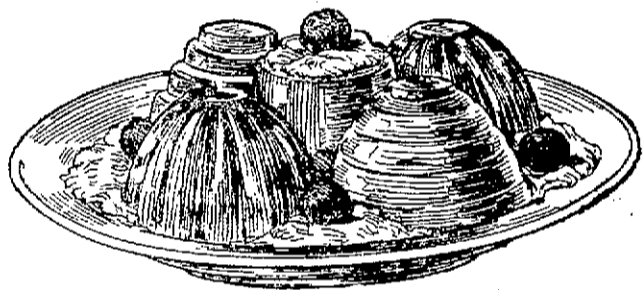

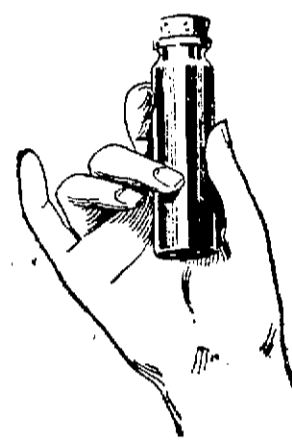

Please accept this offer. It is good for this week only, and will save you 50 cents. The molds will last a lifetime for serving dainty jells in attractive form.

Jiffy-Jell

For Salads and Desserts

Real Fruit Flavors Sealed in Glass

Extra-Grade Desserts

This offer is made to introduce a new delight to thousands of additional homes.

It is an extra-grade quick gelatine dessert. It is the only quick dessert made with Waukesha gelatine—a rare and costly grade. It is the only dessert with true fruit flavors in sealed vials, so it tastes like fresh, ripe fruit.

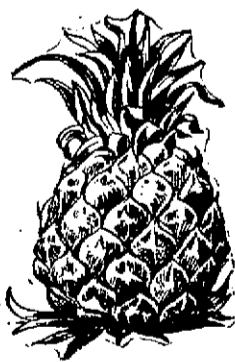

It is the final creation of Otis E. Glidden, for 17 years the leading gelatine expert.

Real Fruit Creations

Each package of Jiffy-Jell contains a glass vial. In that glass vial is an essence of fruit juice, made from fresh, ripe fruit.

The flavor is highly concentrated. Half a ripe pineapple, for instance, is used in the flavor for one dessert.

So Jiffy-Jell desserts have a wealth of rich flavor. They taste like crushed-fruit dainties. You have never before tasted anything like them in a gelatine dessert.

Fifty Instant Delights

With Jiffy-Jell on hand, there are fifty kinds of dainties always at your command. Most of them are instantly prepared.

Simply add boiling water. Add nothing else but the vial of flavor, and you have a wonderful fruity dessert. Cool in these molds, when you get them, and you have numerous inviting forms.

Or add fruit, if you wish—chocolate, nuts, whipped cream, etc. Thus you can make fifty kinds of desserts.

Jiffy Mint Sauce For Lamb and Other Roasts

Dissolve one package of Mint Jiffy-Jell in one cup of boiling water. Add the Mint flavor from the vial, then a cup of strained liquid from the pan in which roast is cooked. Serve hot.

A single package—costing 12½ cents—supplies the whole family.

No Scalded Flavors

Jiffy-Jell flavors cannot deteriorate, because they are sealed in glass.

They are not scalded in making Jiffy-Jell. You add the flavor when the jell has partly cooled. You do not get a cooked-fruit flavor, as with old-time products. You get no artificial flavors. All fruit flavors are made from fruit. You get flavors which are impossible when flavor is mixed with the gelatine. All fine flavors must be bottled to keep fresh.

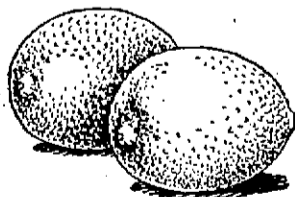

You will be amazed when you know how much this means. And we make this offer so you may know at once.

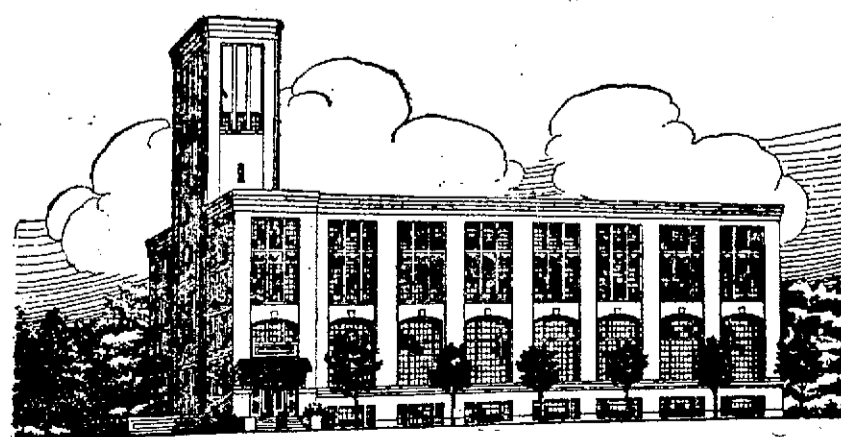

Salads and Garnishes

Then there is a mint flavor, made from fresh mint leaves. It gives to Jiffy-Jell a wealth of fresh mint flavor. With it you can make an instant garnish jell for cold meats. Or you can make a mint sauce if you wish.

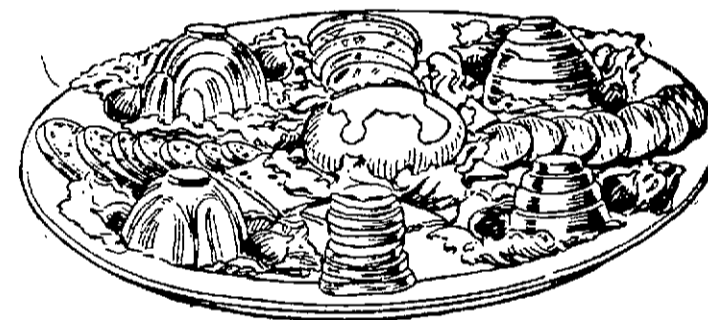

There is Lime Jiffy-Jell, with flavor made from lime fruit. It makes a salad jell, tart, zestful, green. Serve it with your salad. Mix it in. Or mix the salad articles into the jell before cooling. It doubles the volume of a salad, and doubles its delights.

The Jiffy-Jell factory is the finest food plant in America. It is built amid the Waukesha springs. There Jiffy-Jell is made under ideal conditions. And under the personal direction of Otis E. Glidden, the famous gelatine expert.

Home of Jiffy-Jell

The gelatine we use—Waukesha gelatine—is made by the owners of Jiffy-Jell. It is a very rare grade, which costs twice as much as the common. It is used in no other quick dessert.

Our Free Mold Offer Good for One Week Only

We want every home in this section to know this extra-grade dessert. It will be a revelation, bringing you a new conception of these fruity, quick desserts.

We want you to try various flavors, to know which ones you like best. So we make this offer, good for one week only—a very expensive offer.

Buy at your grocery six packages of Jiffy-Jell, assorted flavors. Then mail us the coupon below, enclosing ten cents to cover postage and packing. We will mail you then six jelly molds, made of pure aluminum, in assorted shapes. These molds will last a lifetime. The usual price is 60 cents for this set of six.

Please accept this offer now. It will not be repeated. It will reveal a new delight to you, and give you molds for serving. But be sure you get Jiffy-Jell like the package in the coupon. No other jelly dessert is made in this quality. No other has fruit flavors in vials.

A recipe book will be mailed with the molds.

There are a lot of things a woman can do to her country in this time of war. Perhaps, the most important thing is to be a good mother. I believe that I can be more serviceable in the Red Cross work than in any other way. I have a natural inclination toward this work and have been studying for it. During the last two months I have been taking a course of instruction in first aid work at a hospital near the studio, and also I have been doing further studies at home of various subjects under a special instructor whom I employed for the purpose. I intend to devote my vacation to this work, so I have been advised by the local Red Cross authorities. I will be well enough informed in the work to be able to render service.

Here is a new way to get into the Red Cross. A Chicago multi-millionaire, whose name is not given, consented to the use of his beautiful lawn and home for the filming of several scenes in "Pants," the forthcoming picture, which little Mary McAllister is featured, on condition that his two children be permitted to appear in them.

HERE'S ASTA

Asta Nielsen arrived in New York a few days ago from Copenhagen. She's a star of both stage and screen over there. But not much is going on in the way of art these war times in Copenhagen. So she set sail to see what there is to see in America. Asta isn't particularly pretty, and she's as straight up and down as a board off a fence. That, they say, lends peculiar distinction to her impersonation of the sirens she has made so eye-enslaving in Copenhagen. She began her professional career in plays of Ibsen. That was at the Royal theatre. Then at the New theatre, also in Copenhagen, she won new fame in "Trilby." If no movie producer makes her an irresistibly large offer, she expects to continue her travels to Japan.

One of the most encouraging aspects of the movie art is the weekly demonstration that motion pictures made in reasonably good taste are the ones that attract the largest audiences. No longer are the larger profits to be made by exhibition of movies that appeal to curiosity concerning ways of depravity.

24 HOUR DAY FOR SALOONS DURING CHIPPEWA FAIR

[SPECIAL TO THIS GAZETTE.] Chippewa Falls, Sept. 13.—Twenty-four hour saloons will be accommodated at the Chippewa county fair here. The common council has voted to allow the saloons to remain open all night. Alderman Jasper, who introduced the resolution, said it would be a detriment to the fair visitors if that extra entertainment was not afforded to them.

Many conservative advertisers are using the classified columns. They find it pays.

Myers Theatre.

Local playgoers have been waiting for a long time to enjoy "Very Good Eddie," and they will doubtless welcome the announcement that this smart and swaggar musical entertainment is coming to the Myers theatre, Sunday evening, Sept. 16.

Originally booked to appear here last spring, at the termination of its Chicago run, it remained in the Windy City so long that when it was finally withdrawn the summer was well advanced and the local theatrical season over. So it was retained as one of the first attractions of the new season. As there are a number of large eastern cities that have not yet seen "Very Good Eddie," the management has tried to keep the metropolitan cast intact, and the company that will be seen here does not vary to any great extent from the original one. It still contains Denman Maye, Harry Meyers, Georgie Mack, Helen Raymond, Florence Earle, Theodora Warfield, Lavinia Winn, Harry Linker, Jean De Brac, Elaine Ford, Ralph O'Brien, and the original Princess theatre rosebud chorus.

PETEY DINK—SO PETEY SIGNALED HIS DISTRESS.

The Hillman

By

E. PHILLIPS OPENHEIM

Author of "The Double Traitor," "The Master Mummer," etc.

(Copyright, The Frank A. Munsey Co.)

The prince shrugged his shoulders. "It is unfortunate," he sighed, "but we are both engaged. If you will give us the opportunity some other evening—"

"I am not at all sure that I shall have anything more to do with you, Eugene," she declared. "You are not behaving nicely. Will you come and see me while you are in town, Mr. Strangeway?" she added, turning to John.

"I should like to very much," he replied. "I think," he added, a little hesitatingly, "that I have read one of your books of travel. It is very interesting to meet you."

"So my fame has really reached Cumberland?" she laughed. "You must come and talk to me one afternoon quite soon. Will you?"

"I will come with pleasure," John promised.

"They stood for a few moments in the crowded vestibule until Lady Hilma Mullenbach was called. The prince stood back, allowing John to escort her to the door. She detained him for a moment after she had taken her seat, and leaned out of the window, her fingers still in his hand.

"Be careful!" she whispered. "The prince's supper parties are just a little—shall I say banal? There are better things if one waits."

CHAPTER XI.

The reception rooms of Sayre House, by some people considered the finest in London, were crowded that night by a brilliant and cosmopolitan assembly. For some time John stood by the prince's side and introduced to more people than he had ever met before in his life. Presently, however, he was discovered by his friend Amer-

ton. "Queer thing your being here, a friend of the prince and all that!" the young man remarked. "Where's Miss Sophy this evening?"

"I haven't seen her," John replied. "I don't believe she is invited."

"Like to be introduced to some of the girls, or shall we go and have a drink?"

John was hesitating when he felt a hand upon his shoulder. The prince's voice sounded in his ear. "Strangeway," he said, "I am privileged to present you to Mme. Alda Calavera. Madame, this is my friend of whom I spoke to you."

John turned away from the little group of girls and young men toward whom Amer-ton had been leading him. The woman was different from anything he had imagined, from anything he had ever seen. In the ballet a writhing, sensuous figure with every gesture a note in the octave of passion, here she seemed the very personification of a negative and striking immobility. She was slender, not so tall as she had seemed upon the stage, dressed in white from head to foot. Her face was almost marblelike in its pallor, her smooth, black hair was drawn tightly over her ears, and her eyes were of the deepest shade of blue. She raised her hand, as he bowed, with a gesture almost royal in its condescension. The prince, with quiet tact, bridged over the moment during which John struggled in vain for something to say.

"Mr. Strangeway," he remarked, "paid his first visit to Covent Garden tonight. He has seen his first ballet, as we moderns understand the term."

"I cannot help envying him that delight. He naturally finds it difficult to realize this additional good fortune. Will you excuse me for one moment?"

The prince departed to welcome some later arrivals. The noisy little group standing close at hand, from which John had been diverted, passed on into the refreshment room, and the two were, for a few moments, almost isolated.

"You were pleased with the performance, I hope?"

Her voice was in character with her personality. It was extremely low, scarcely louder than a whisper. To his surprise, it was almost wholly free from any foreign accent.

"It was very wonderful," John answered.

"The prince tells me," she continued, "that you are a stranger in London. Give me your arm. We will walk to a quieter place. In a few moments we are to be disturbed for supper. One can't go often and so much in this country. Why do I say that, though? It is not so bad as in Russia."

They passed across the polished wood floor into a little room with oriental fittings, where a lamp was swinging from the ceiling, giving out a dim but pleasant light. The place was empty, and the sound of the music and voices seemed to come from a distance. She sank down upon a divan back among the shadows, and motioned John to sit by her side.

"You have come to find out, to understand—is that not so?" she inquired. "What you know of life, the prince tells me, you have learned from books. Now you have come to discover what more there is to be learned in the world of men and women."

"The prince has been very kind," John said.

She turned her head slowly and looked at him. "A young man to whom the prince chooses to be kind is, in a way, fortunate," she said. "There is very little in life, in men or in women, which he does not understand. Let us return to what we were speaking about. I find it very interesting."

"You are very kind," John declared. "What you will learn here," she went on, "depends very much upon yourself. Are you intelligent? Perhaps not very," she added, looking at him critically. "You have brains, however, without a doubt. You have also what places you at once on a par with the puit of the moment—you are wonderfully good-looking."

John moved a little uneasily in his place. He felt that the dancer's eyes were fixed upon him, and he was feverishly anxious not to respond to the invitation of their gaze. He was conscious, too, of the queer, indefinable fascination of her near presence in the dimly-lighted room.

"What you will learn," she proceeded, "depends very much upon your desires. If you seek for the best, and are content with nothing else, you will find it. But so few men are content to wait!"

"I intend to," John said simply. "Look at me, please," she ordered. Once more he was compelled to look into her deep-blue eyes. The incomprehensible smile was still upon her lips.

"You have loved?"

"No," he answered, taken a little aback by the abruptness of the question.

"You grow more wonderful! You are free from any distracting thoughts about women? You have no entanglements?"

"I have nothing of the sort," John declared, almost irritably. "There is one person who has made a wonderful change in my life. I believe I could say that I am absolutely certain of my feelings for her, but so far she has not given me much encouragement. Tell me, madame, why do you ask me these questions?"

"Because it interests me," she replied. "Why do you not insist that this lady should tell you the truth?"

"I have come to London to insist," he told her, "but I have been here only forty-eight hours. I am waiting."

"So many people spend their lives doing that," she went on presently. "It does not appeal to me. The moment I make up my mind that I want a thing, I take it. The moment I make up my mind to give, I give."

John was suddenly conscious of the closeness of the atmosphere. The fingers of his hands were clutched tightly together. He swore to himself that he would not look into this woman's face. He listened to the band which was playing in the balcony of the great hall, to the murmur of the voices, the shouts of laughter. He told himself that Mme. Calavera was amusing herself with him.

"The prince's party," she continued, after a long pause, "seems to be a great success, to judge by the noise tempting you, really! Do sit down. I have met men in many countries, but none like you. Don't you realize that your love for one woman should make you kind to all?"

"No, I don't," he answered bluntly. She patted his hand gently.

"Come," she said, "do not be afraid of me. I will not make love to you seriously. You must be kind to me because everybody spoils me. After supper there are one or two more questions I must ask you. Do you know that I am going to dance here? Never before have I danced in a private house in England. Except upon the stage, I like to dance only to those whom I love."

The little space between the curtains was suddenly darkened. John turned eagerly around, and, to his immense relief, recognized the prince. Their host came forward to where they were sitting, and held out his arm to Calavera.

"Dear lady," he announced, "supper is served. Will you do me this great honor?"

She rose to her feet. The prince turned to John.

"This is my privilege as host," he explained, "but if you will follow us, you will find some consolation in store for you."

"Well," the prince asked, as he handed Alda Calavera to her place at his right hand.

"I think not," she replied.

He raised his eyebrows slightly. For a moment he glanced down the supper table with the care of a punctilious host, to see that his guests were properly seated. He addressed a star-trivialities to the musical-comedy star who was sitting on his left. Then he leaned once more toward the great dancer.

"You surprise me," he said. "I should have thought that the entertainment would have commended itself to you. You do not doubt the facts?"

"They are obvious enough," she replied. "The young man tried to tell me that he was in love with another woman, and I felt suddenly powerless. I think I must be getting to that age when one prefers to achieve one's conquests with the lifting of a finger."

The prince sighed.

"I shall never understand your sex!" he declared. "I should have supposed that the slight effort of resistance would have provided just the necessary stimulus."

She turned her beautiful head and looked at the prince through narrowed eyes.

"After all," she asked, "what should I gain? The young man is in his way, a splendid work of art. Why should I be vandal enough to destroy it? I shall ask you another question."

Home-Reading Course For Citizen-Soldiers

(Issued by the War Department and all rights to reprint reserved.) This course of thirty daily lessons is offered to the men selected for service in the National Army as a practical help in getting started in the right way. It is informal in tone and does not attempt to give binding rules and directions. These are contained in the various manuals and regulations of the United States Army, to which this course is merely introductory.

LESSON NO. 27.

THE SPIRIT OF THE SERVICE.

Preceding lessons: 1. Your Post of Honor. 2. Making Good as a Soldier. 3. Nine Soldierly Qualities. 4. Getting Ready for Camp. 5. First Days in Camp. 6. Cleanliness in Camp. 7. Your Health. 8. Marching Camp. 9. Your Equipment. 10. Recreation in Camp. 11. Playing the Game. 12. Teamwork in the Army. 13. Group Leaders. 14. The Team in the Service. 15. Fighting Arms of the Service. 16. Staff Branches of the Service. 17. Staff Branches of the Service. 18. Army Signaling. 19. The Army System of Training. 20. Close-Order Drill. 21. Extended Order Drill. 22. Guard Duty. 23. Getting Ahead in the Army. 24. The Army. 25. Discipline and Respect for the Colors. 26. Some National Traditions.

The spirit that dominated the American Army atunker Hill, New Orleans, Buena Vista, Gettysburg, and Santiago will just as surely dominate the National Army on the battle fields of Europe.

This spirit is a compound. It is made up of democratic feeling, in part of respect and love for the Nation, and in part of the soldier's pride in the United States Army. It has always been and will always remain a democratic Army. Every man in the Army is made to feel that his brains and his individuality count for something. It is not merely a big, soulless machine that moves with mechanical precision. It is a "team." Each man in the team is presumed to be intelligent and self-reliant.

Democracy in the Army. Of course there can be no teamwork without regularity and strict discipline. This is equally true of a football or baseball team. There must also be various ranks and degrees of authority. And sometimes this necessary organization and close regulation is not democratic.

But the fact of the case is that American soldiers accept the reason and discipline of the Army readily because they have the good sense to realize that these things are necessary. They accept them without losing in the least their real independence as free citizens.

Democratic because the path of promotion is wide open. Any man who has a reasonable amount of ability can qualify as a soldier and a leader, and can work his way up. And this is the real test of a democratic Army.

In a special sense the National Army is democratic. A great democracy must always carry on its affairs through chosen representatives. You are doubtless familiar with this principle as it is applied in time of peace. Through a process of fair selection the National Army has been picked out to represent all parts of the country and all groups of the people. Never has America sent forth an army so truly representative of the Nation.

There are always pessimists in every generation who insist that patriotism is dead or at least decaying. They have not been lacking in recent years. Then comes a crisis such as now confronts us. And always the question of patriotism is answered by the outpouring of effort, money, and blood on the part of the citizens.

Fighting in that spirit and with the full strength of the country to back it up, the United States Army can not fail to achieve its objects. In other words, we shall make good with our lives and fortunes the great glory to which we were born, and a new glory shall shine in the face of our people.

The Post of Highest Honor. The patriotic spirit which moves the whole country will find its highest expression in its soldiers—the men who are assigned to the post of danger and of honor. They will go all the more bravely since they know that behind them the whole Nation is organizing for the national service. Their spirit will be one of patriotic devotion fully as intense as that of American armies in previous wars.

The spirit of democracy and of patriotism is to be found also in the armies of other nations fighting against German aggression. It will have its own spirit of Americanism. It will have American enthusiasm, good humor, fairness, even to the enemy, and self-confidence. It will be a work of battle-hardened but with a vim. If there are temporary setbacks it will accept them and keep on "plugging." These are some of the American traditions the National Army.

Fighting in that spirit and with the full strength of the country to back it up, the United States Army can not fail to achieve its objects. In other words, we shall make good with our lives and fortunes the great glory to which we were born, and a new glory shall shine in the face of our people.
